The stock market to-day was quite animated and the volume of business considerably larger than on any day in a number of weeks past. The movement of prices was irregular, owing to heavy realization of profits, which was again partly offset by fresh buying for long account. The initial and early trading was characterized by a resumption of the activity and buoyancy that had marked the close of the previous week. The condition was assisted by purchasing orders for foreign account. The dealings were well distributed and improvement was generally noted. Foreign purchases were extensive and included large blocks of speculative bonds. The upward movement was soon stemmed on sales for both accounts. Effective support was evident, however, in some instances and buying of the higher priced investment stocks on a fairly large scale was a feature of the dealings. Following up the selling to take profits, the larger professional bears utilized the news of several bank failures in the southwest to emphasize the reaction and with fair success. Manhattan was offered freely and fell 3½ per cent from the top figures. Wheeling & Lake Erie stocks again suffered from liquidation, the common yielding 1 and the preferred 3½ per cent. In the late trading the selling pressure increased and the traders seemed to meet with little or no opposition in their raiding tactics. The closing was weak at sharp fractional net losses in most of the active stocks.

Americans were good, although the buying of shares seems principally from New York. The situation here is peculiar. Money is cheap, yet the causes which make it cheap are the very points helping to check market activity. The Bank of England has yet to be repaid \(^2\),000,000 before the position of the money market can be properly gauged. It was rumored freely to-day that the bank rate will go down on Tuesday. I do not think it likely, but uncertainty as to the monetary outlook is unmistakably evident. Japan bought \(^300,000\) pounds in gold to-day.
